Subject: POLITICO: Encana to Talk Pavillion Report

ENCANA TO TALK PAVILLION REPORT: David Stewart, Encana's environment, health and safety lead for Wyoming, will host a teleconference at 11 a.m. MST to mark almost one year since EPA released its controversial and much examined draft report on groundwater contamination in Pavillion, Wyo. Stewart will argue that nothing found by EPA came from oil and gas operations and will call for EPA to withdraw the report and shift focus to the shallow wells owners have complained about and away from deeper groundwater.
